Thermal insulation

Our EPS packaging, compliant with current health and hygiene regulations, is indicated for the transport of products that must not undergo sudden changes in temperature. In fact, expanded polystyrene is, in addition to being easy to handle and having a great duration over time, it has excellent thermal insulation properties (for both cold and hot products) and guarantees a constant internal temperature for up to 12/24 hours. costante fino a 12/24 ore. The entire production of our EPS packaging is done in Italy.

food Delivery

Expanded polystyrene finds itself perfectly in the catering sector, from the companies that supply meals to schools and hospital canteens, up to premises that carry out home delivery, the main objective is that the product maintains its temperature and that it does not suffer damage during transport.

Our EPS packaging, therefore, has the best quality/price ratio to meet the needs of this sector, to satisfy the requirements of such a sector.
